Doggone Good Time

by Kathy Murphy

DENNIS CURRAN, STATE OF VERMONT/TOURISM

When you look at your pet, circled up beside you on the floor, playing fetch in the yard with your kids, or riding shotgun on the way to the groomer, what do you see? A loyal friend, a trusted confidant, a playful exercise partner?

Everybody sees their pet differently. Some people focus on the pedigree, others view them as furry companions; most however treat their pets just like a member of the family and take their well-being to heart each and every day. For this age-less “child” of the family, rules may be broken, lessons unlearned and sins forgiven. Why? Because your pet’s spirited curiosity leads to amazing discovery and downright joy. Whether you’re traveling with your pet, or you just want to emulate their energetic approach to life, a trip to Vermont means a doggone good time for man (or woman!) and beast.

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE IN VERMONT

Most people love to play. Atop a mountain, in the middle of a lake, on a farm, or in the woods, there’s rest and rejuvenation, adventure and whimsy, scenery and sounds of nature in all four seasons in Vermont. Hiking, paddling, rummaging and roaming with a four-legged companion is exhilarating – many pets and their human counterparts will explore with tail-wagging Labrador bravado, abandoning the trail in favor of open space, hell-bent to fully engage all five senses. Others experience with a more reserved, feline independence, cautious yet curious as they scale to new heights or launch into unknown waters.

Here, outdoor adventure comes in all shapes and sizes, and play-cations are packaged to appeal to a variety of tastes, interests, and breeds. Lush Green Mountain forests, long winding roads, and crisp, clear lakes and ponds are the backdrop for endless possibilities. Our cars and trucks are equipped with racks loaded with road and mountain bikes, kayaks and canoes, or cargo carriers toting camping gear – all the ingredients that enable instant gratification when the sun is shining and the fish are biting.

HIKING AND WALKING

Who doesn’t like to go for a walk and unleash oneself from responsibility and routine? It’s easy to put your best foot or paw forward in Vermont, whether you have two or four, where our mountains are accessible. Wooded trails are often a short drive from quaint villages or mere steps away from resort accommodations.

One of our treasures is America’s oldest long-distance hiking trail, the Long Trail, which spans 272 miles (389 km) from the Massachusetts border to Canada. Whether you lace up your boots to tackle the entire end-to-end journey or venture off on a day hike to one of the many summits, like Stratton Mountain, Killington Peak, Camel’s Hump, or Mount Mansfield – Vermont’s highest peak – you’ll be rewarded with spectacular 360 degree views all over New England and the state of New York. If you do tackle a mountain with your dog, please keep them under your control and on the trail. Always bring along a leash, extra water and a baggie or two.

For shorter, family-centric jaunts to discover colorful wildflowers, wild blueberries or musical songbirds, try the trail to Pleiad Lake in Ripton, one of Vermont’s highest lakes; the footpaths of Mount Independence in Orwell, an active archeology site with Revolutionary War historical features; or Mount Philo in Charlotte, with sweeping Lake Champlain vistas. To find hiking on state lands, family-friendly hikes, or inn-to-inn guided hiking tours, turn to pages 103–105 of this guidebook, or visit the website of Vermont State Parks (www.vtstateparks.com).

You may seek a different sort of path to travel, one that is more flat and urban. While the surface may be predictable, the journey is far from it as you stroll through our Designated Downtowns on paved recreation paths or rail trails (see page 96 of this guidebook to find a Designated Downtown). Outdoor dining, sculptures and statues, floral gardens, historic markers and classic New England architecture are interwoven into the natural landscape of these vibrant communities. Or, head out of town to walk the acclaimed, tree canopied roads of Vermont bordered by stone fences keeping cows at bay. And, if your dog likes to “ruff it” too, the West River Trail in Jamaica, or Stowe Recreation Path, are just a few of the many “walkin’ the dog” options available to Fido. Keep your pet on a leash in town, and be aware that while many businesses are dog-friendly, some are not.

BIKING

Rolling routes through quaint villages and past Vermont farms and orchards, over covered bridges and across lush valleys, and up majestic mountains surrounding pristine lakes make cycling the ideal way to enjoy Vermont’s unspoiled scenery. Here you can choose between touring the quiet back roads of the Champlain Valley, or take on the challenge of the forested trails and rollicking terrain of the Northeast Kingdom on your mountain bike – whatever your preference, we have the ride for you.

For some, “man’s best friend” is two-wheeled and not four-legged. Those who love their bike and seek every opportunity to spend time together won’t bark up the wrong tree cycling in Vermont, with or without their pet. There are hundreds of miles of roads and trails, from scenic, leisurely rides to heart-pumping single track adventures, kid-friendly bike paths to hill workouts on mountain access roads and adrenaline-fueled downhill descents powered by lift-access. Bike centers, tour operators, bike organizations, resorts and lodging choices are as plentiful and as accommodating as the options to peddle your way through Vermont.

MOUNT PHILO, CHARLOTTE

Looking for an organized, simplified solution that enables you to experience Vermont from the saddle worry-free? Try an inn-to-inn bike tour. You’ll rise and shine in a beautiful, comfortable inn, ride at your own pace amidst the sights and sounds of one of the world’s most stunning locations, and relax with warm, friendly people over fine food at day’s end. If you do intend to bring your pet, always call ahead to be sure he or she can be accommodated or make arrangements for Fido to be well taken care of while you are on the road. (Please see page 85 of this guidebook to find an organized bike trip.)

From extreme to the mainstream, Vermont’s alpine and cross country resorts also offer mountain bike terrain in summer and fall, many served by lifts to enable quick ascent to diverse trail networks. Check the Vermont Ski Areas Association’s website to find a resort open for mountain biking (www.ski.vermont.com).

Traveling without your pet but want to experience the thrill of mountain biking? Other human-only options include the Catamount Outdoor Family Center in Williston, just outside of Burlington (www.catamountoutdoor.com) and the bike terrain park for both mountain and BMX bikes at Grafton Ponds Outdoor Center in Grafton. Three terrain loops feature jumps, switchbacks, and teeter-totters; don't miss "Ravine Run" – an exciting series of drops, deep turns, and bridges down the side of Grafton Ponds' steep ravine. Grafton Ponds Outdoor Center welcomes dogs on Mondays and Thursdays. This facility offers guided tours for all levels and abilities (www.graftonponds.com).

SWIMMING

Who doesn't love a cool, refreshing dip when the dog days of summer arrive? From sandy beaches to a backyard pond or pool, crystalline mountain lakes to spring-fed quarries, the options for swimming in clear, clean waters are plentiful throughout the state. One "big lake" destination is Lake Champlain's North Beach in Burlington, open Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day (www.enjoyburlington.com/northbeach.cfm). North Beach welcomes dogs on leashes. Other larger bodies of water for swimming include Lake Carmi, Bomoseen or Lake Willoughby; for smaller options, choose Silver Lake in Barnard, Lake St. Catherine or Lake Elmore. It's a safe bet to ask your innkeeper or concierge for their personal favorite too; swimming holes off the beaten path can be closely guarded secrets and are yet as well worth exploring as more popular destinations.

GOING TO THE DOGS

According to the American Pet Products Association National Pet Owners Survey, over 46 million households own a dog; in fact, it's likely more than one as total number of dogs owned as pets exceeds 78 million. We pamper them, bring them wherever we roam, and surprise them with something new often, whether stylish accessories, gourmet treats or escape to points unknown.

HELLO, MY NAME IS....

From monogrammed sweaters and personalized food and water bowls to digitized collar tags and handmade treats, owners embrace their pets as true members of the American family with their very own belongings.

First road trip with your pet? Orvis in Manchester offers newbies an indispensable roadside companion, The AAA Pet Book Traveling with Your Pet, along with a cadre of items from FUR Dry™ jackets to stain-less steel water bottles to equip you and your pal for all kinds of Vermont adventures (www.orvis.com). When it's raining cats and dogs, you may want to invest in a bright red, comfy Polartec™ Fleece dog coat by VT Fleece Company, made in Vermont and

FISHING

There are fish tails and tributes and then there's the one that got away. In Vermont, fishing is a favorite pastime of visitors and Vermonters alike. One of the few activities that engage the passions and interests of everyone from kids to great-grandparents, catching "the big one" in Vermont is sometimes challenging, often exciting, and always rewarding, no matter how your fish stacks up. With more than 20 popular species of game and panfish to be found in the lakes, ponds, rivers, and brooks of Vermont, chances are your catch will be just fine and the lifelong bond between generations of family and friends made on the water will endure.

Vermont's family-friendly fishing spots are dispersed across the state and offer families an excellent chance of catching rainbow, brook or lake trout, or perch, bass or pickerel from shore or in a boat. Kids under 15 years can get started without a license; for more information and "Trophy Trout" designated sites, contact the Vermont Department of Fish & Wildlife (www.vtfishandwildlife.com). (Your pet doesn't need a license but make sure to keep them away from the hook!) Local outfitters also offer guided tours and lessons. Or, take part in one of the many competitive, fundraising fishing derbies on Lake Champlain annually (www.lciderby.com).

each and every furry face (www.wagathas.com), or stop in to Birchgrove Baking in Montpelier for their handmade dog treats (www.birchgrovebaking.com). Kelly's K9 Cookies in Milton are homemade, all natural and good enough for humans to eat (www.kellysk9cookies.com).

FOUR PAWS UP ACCOMMODATIONS

Many inns, bed & breakfasts, hotels, and resorts throughout Vermont are adopting pet-friendly policies. National chains, like the Hilton in Burlington, the Holiday Inn Express in Springfield and the Best Western in Rutland have hung a welcome sign out for Fido. If you really want to spoil your furry friend, check into Phineas Swann Bed & Breakfast Inn & Cottages in Montgomery Center, renowned as New England's most romantic pet-friendly inn with luxurious dog bed and complimentary rawhide upon arrival (www.phineasswann.com). If Stowe's your destination, the Golden Eagle Resort offers spacious grounds ideal for giving your dog plenty of room to stretch their legs and is easy walking distance to the Stowe Recreation Path and the dog-friendly Stowe "Quiet Path," a favorite local hangout for the pooches (www.townofstowevt.org/recreationprograms/105.html). And, best of all, their pet-friendly accommodations are complete with dog bed, bowl, a treat and personalized doggie bags!

PHINEAS SWANN B&B INN & COTTAGES, MONTGOMERY

For pet-friendly accommodations, look for the "Pets Accepted" icon (🐾) in the listings section of this guidebook. As always, if you intend to vacation with your pet, please call ahead.

FULLER COVERED BRIDGE, MONTGOMERY

DENNIS CURRAN, STATE OF VERMONT/TOURISM

If you're ready to hook some human-only time, try an Orvis-endorsed fly fishing excursion in Essex at The Essex, Vermont's Culinary Resort and Spa (www.vtculinaryresort.com), pick up a fly rod at the Orvis Manchester Fly Fishing School at The Equinox Resort in Manchester Village (www.equinoxresort.com) or experience a private fishing lodge on Lake Champlain when you stay at Charlie's Northland Lodge on North Hero Island, with discounts available just for anglers (www.charliesnorthlandlodge.com).

BOATING

Float, paddle, motor, sail, cruise...so many ways to explore Vermont's bodies of water. Be adventurous and engage the thrilling speed of a powerboat or Jet Ski. Be silent and stealth-like in a kayak or canoe. Harness the wind power of a sailboat, hot dog off the high cliffs into the deep pools of a quarry, or simply bob lazily along down a river on a tube. Lakes and ponds, reservoirs and rivers dot all regions of the state for ready access and every mood and budget.

Ready to add an air of elegance and fine dining to your on-water experience? Drop Fido at a friend's house for a play date all his own and climb on board the Spirit of Ethan Allen III, a floating restaurant, banquet facility, and cruise ship on Lake Champlain, offering themed dinner cruises that take you on an entertaining adventure like no other (www.soca.com). Vermont Discovery Cruises feature various multi-day and night vacation cruises aboard The Moonlight Lady, exploring the coastline, islands and broad waters of Lake Champlain from Burlington to the northernmost reaches of the lake and even as far north as Montreal, Canada (www.vermontmoonlightlady.com).

TWO-LEGGED VERMONT VACATIONS

Traveling with your four-legged best friend is not for everyone. If your vacation is for human adventurers only there are plenty of outdoor activities for you to experience with the energy and enthusiasm of a happy dog, even if you left him at home.

GOLF

Golfers are a unique breed, hot on the trail of birdies and eagles that have nothing to do with feathers. Yet their exuberance is rewarded in Vermont, where the natural landscape is well-suited for challenging but very playable courses, many with breathtaking views. It's never been easier or more fun to play a few rounds in Vermont. The Vermont Golf Association features courses designed by such renowned golf architects as Jack Nicklaus, Robert Trent Jones, Sr., Graham Cooke & Associates, and more (www.vtga.org).

Whether you tee it up at a resort or play a round on a public course, the design and scenery will be memorable. The Hermitage Golf Club at Haystack Mountain in Wilmington is a Desmond Muirhead-designed 6,549 yard, par 72 championship course (www.hermitagegolfclub.com); the course at the Mount Snow Golf Club, designed by New England course architect Geoffrey Cornish, is an 18-hole par 72 championship course with stunning Green Mountain views. New to the sport or hoping to perfect your swing? The Original Golf School at Mount Snow was one of the first golf schools in the country. The Okemo Inn in Ludlow offers golf packages (www.okemoinn.com) at Okemo Valley Golf Club; Stratton Mountain Resort features a championship, 27-hole golf course with slopeside village (www.stratton.com) and golf school founded by Arnold Palmer; The Village Green at Stowe is a family condominium resort adjacent to the Stowe Country Club (www.vgasstowe.com); and the Sugarbush Resort in Warren is home to a Robert Trent Jones, Sr. 18-hole course with golf camps and clinics for men, women and juniors (www.sugarbush.com).

MORE OUTDOOR ADVENTURES

Vermont has a well earned reputation for being the place to visit for world-class outdoor adventures of all types and variety that impart grins like a Cheshire cat. From human-powered recreation to leisure sports, motorized escapes to nature-based entertainment, you'll want to come back again and again, whether for the mild or the wild side.

For your daily dose of adrenaline, many of Vermont's alpine resorts transform into adventure centers when the snow melts. The Pump House at Jay Peak is Vermont's first water park, with 50,000 square feet of fun, featuring a myriad of slides and the near-vertical LaChute, which launches riders into a free-fall, reaching speeds of up to 40 mph with a force of 2.5 Gs (www.jaypeakresort.com). ArborTrek Canopy Adventures at Smugglers' Notch Resort lead riders on a zipline canopy tour, soaring through the forest on a series of ziplines, suspension bridges, and rappels (www.arbortrek.com). And Okemo's Timber Ripper, a 375 vertical-foot roller coaster descent along 3,100 feet of track, follows the contours of the mountain with added waves, camel backs, banking loops and a "twister" section (www.okemo.com). Don't miss Stowe Mountain Resort's Alpine Slide, Bromley's Aerial Adventure Park or the Sun Mountain Flyer, too (www.stowe.com, www.bromley.com). For thrills Vermont-style, dial in and turn it up with one of these high mountain adventures.

Vermont is home to even more extreme pursuits: glide through our skies with a parachute on your back and gorgeous fall foliage beneath you; scale boulders in Bolton or climb the Notch (Smugglers' Notch in Jeffersonville). Whether rock climbing, caving, hang gliding, whitewater rafting, or skydiving, Vermont is a thrill a minute destination for those with nerves of steel. Visit the Vermont Outdoor Guide Association for specifics and resources to plan an extreme outing (www.voga.org).

A scenic helicopter or hot air balloon ride awaits the more laid-back explorer eager to claim a unique vantage point. Silver Maple Lodge & Cottages in Fairlee (www.silvermaplelodge.com) offers a Balloon Inn Vermont Vacation option with lodging and a champagne balloon ride so you can leave the planning to your hosts and just enjoy the ride. Or, see why Frommer's recommends the spectacular view of Vermont's famous foliage from a balloon ride over Lake Champlain with Above Reality, Inc. Hot Air Balloon Rides as one of the World's Best Ten Hot Air Balloon Adventures (www.balloonvermont.com). If rotors are more your style, Mansfield Heliflight of Milton offers one-hour sightseeing tours in a variety of aircraft (www.mansfieldheliflight.com). Sit back in the bubble-windowed cabin of the four-seat Robinson R-44, equipped with headphones for ease of communications, and take in the views of the Green Mountains, the foliage and the lakes region. For a sampling of Vermont's aerial sightseeing tours and locations, see page 80 of this guidebook.

With all the incredible outdoor opportunities for fun and adventure in Vermont for humans and for pets, the thought of boredom is "pre-pawsterous!" In our easily accessible state, you can ramble all four corners of Vermont in one day and find fetchingly beautiful scenery coupled with pure, unadulterated tail-wagging fun around every bend. Or as your pooch might say, "throw me a bone – the road's calling."

Come for a Visit, Stay for a Lifetime: Profiles of Vermonters-at-Heart

by Jen Butson and Greg Gerdel

People are drawn to Vermont – beautiful mountains, neighborly and culturally rich downtowns, wholesome food that is fresh and local, and “get out and play” diversions that exist harmoniously with other commitments. We asked four people who chose to settle here: what led them to their decision to “make Vermont home?”

Kelly Pawlak: Mount Snow Resort General Manager, 27 years • Dover • www.mountsnow.com

What brought me to Vermont? I grew up skiing. After college, I was suddenly faced with a winter without my dad ready and willing to pay for my season pass. So I went searching for a job at a ski area and found one at Mount Snow Resort in southern Vermont. The longer I worked at Mount Snow, the more I fell in love with the ski industry and this region of Vermont in winter and of course, summer.

What keeps me here? It sounds kind of corny but the primary reason I stay at Mount Snow is because I love the people I work with and the skiers and riders who come to this resort and its surrounding community year after year. Vermont is a great place to raise a family and take advantage of all the amazing recreational opportunities at the resort and around this region of Vermont. Because of where we live and what I do, my kids have had a lot of cool experiences. They’ve had a more active lifestyle than most, growing up skiing, meeting pro athletes, and that is such a great benefit. Every day I wake up anxious to get to the mountain and leave at the end of the day wanting to accomplish more. Where else do you get to spend your days with healthy, happy and fun people...and get paid for it?

What brought me to Vermont? Vermont’s people, creatures, and ecosystem are what enticed me to come to the Green Mountain State. Honeybees visit about 1,500,000 flowers to make one bottle of mead, or honey wine. I discovered Vermont has so many resources for producing our wine, and that people have raised a consistent honey crop here for hundreds of years. A healthy environment and productive bees are critical to the production of mead; one colony of bees contains 40,000 to 60,000 individuals and can produce enough honey for about 90 bottles. We had been beekeeping for a number of years ourselves and realized that making mead in Vermont was a business strategy with great potential.

What keeps me here? What made us stay was not only the support of small fruit growers and Vermonters in general, but also the great landscape in which we are able to work. With four active seasons and a beautiful backdrop, our honey wine business has continued to grow year after year. With such priority placed upon locally produced products, Vermont is a destination for “foodies” from all over. Our mead is crafted from essences that define Vermont. In addition to traditional mead, we make seasonal varieties such as blueberry, raspberry, cranberry, spiced, and chili cinnamon. As a business, we are committed to sourcing our honey and fruit from local producers so that our mead reflects all of the great flavors that Vermont has to offer.

20 years. Art Director at Isle La Motte's Fisk Farm
10 years • Killington • www.maurieharrington.net

What brought me to Vermont? My husband Jack and I both worked as ambassadors and taught skiing at Killington Ski Resort. We bought a ski house which eventually became our permanent home. Our sons competed in freestyle ski competitions and attended Killington Mountain School. I earned my master's degree in art from Norwich University and my husband went to Middlebury College.

What keeps me here? My artistic inspiration comes from the beauty found in Vermont, the magnificent views of Mount Mansfield that I see from my window at our summertime waterfront house in North Hero, as well as the beauty of Killington in winter. I guess I have the best of both worlds.

My husband and I also love Vermont because of its music and art. He plays in a group called "Potluck Folk Singers." I was one of the founding members of Killington Artists Guild which is still in existence today. Recent projects include a poetry book Gathering of Poets for which my painting was selected for the cover. Two of my poems are included in the book as well. I am a member of the Vermont Watercolor Society, Island Arts, Chaffee Art Center, League of Vermont Writers and National League of American Pen Women.

Brandthropology,
10 years • Burlington • www.brandthropology.com

What brought me to Vermont? Family brought me here. After spending many years in some of the world's largest cities (Seoul, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Singapore) we were ready to settle down in a less urban environment. In the early 80s I had summer jobs in Burlington, and came to love the scale of this wonderful place; large enough to offer many of the things that big cities have, but more intimate and socially connected. Burlington topped our list so we dug into savings and made a go of it.

What keeps me here? One very critical thing that keeps me here is this wonderful, buoyant sense that the progressive things that we're doing in Vermont have meaningful impact on the world. I take immense pleasure in working directly with exceptional people and institutions that are making a difference, which is rewarding and invigorating. Through my profession I have taken on projects that allow me to participate in the local food movement, environmental and social services fields, a more sustainable energy future, delivering healthcare services to the rural areas of the state, transforming the higher education model to be less costly and more adult learner friendly, reconnecting our children with nature, and more. It gives me a great sense of pride to be able to take the skills that I've learned in the greater world working for multinational companies and to be able to put these skills to use in a place to which I am deeply connected.

Connections to my extended family keep me here as well. My maternal grandmother came from the Vermont side of Lake Champlain. I uncovered that my great-great-great-great grandfather, Dan Johnson, came to what was then the New Hampshire Grants in 1787 and was one of the original Incorporators of Williston, where I now live. By sheer happenstance, I bought a farm house on a part of that original Johnson farmland. Freaky – and so intriguing! On my dad's side, I'm a direct descendant of a Green Mountain Boy, who was part of the citizen militia established in 1760 and led by Ethan Allen to maintain territorial independence. History's an amazing thing. I just hope that I can impact some small part of Vermont's history.

Sowing the Seeds of Change: Vermont's "Farm-to-Plate" Revolution

by Alison Kosakowski

HIGH MOWING ORGANIC SEEDS, WOLCOTT

DELIA GILLEN, HIGH MOWING SEEDS

In recent years, the notion of eating “farm-to-plate” has captured the attention of culinary aficionados, and even some mainstream eaters, across the country.

From seed, to soil, to the table, the Vermont food system is a complex network. It takes cooperation and a sense of community to create and sustain a food system so deeply integrated. And from that commitment, a food hub has emerged.

On the threshold of Vermont's Northeast Kingdom lies the town of Hardwick. A post-Civil War granite quarrying town, about a decade ago the Center for an Agricultural Economy quietly took root in Hardwick with the goal of supporting and advancing a healthy regional food system (www.hardwickagriculture.org). Within the last half a dozen years Hardwick has emerged as a hub for Vermont's food economy.

Hardwick's legacy is rooted in agriculture. From the town's Kimball House, a c.1890 three-room Victorian B&B located on land that was once part of a subsistence farm, to Vermont Natural Coatings – leveraging whey byproducts from Vermont's vibrant cheesemaking industry to create natural, non-toxic wood finishes – the ingenuity of Hardwick's people has created a momentum for innovation in this plucky town (www.kimballhouse.com, www.vermontnaturalcoatings.com).

In fact, author and environmentalist Bill McKibben noted upon visiting Hardwick five years ago: “After spending a day in Hardwick, I feel a great burst of pleasure and possibility. Deep and transformative things are happening here. Hardwick has all the pieces of a healthy food system connected and ready to fall into place, and is as far ahead in sustainable agriculture as any place in the country.”

And fall in place, they have. Two years after McKibben's declaration, Vermont author Ben Hewitt penned the book The Town That Food Saved: How One Community Found Vitality in Local Food (Rodale Books, 2010), exploring the region's “agripreneurs” in what has been dubbed the “Silicon Valley of local food.” And since then, the momentum has continued to build.

Case in point: Agripreneur Tom Stearns and the butternut squash.

IT STARTS WITH A SEED

Tom Stearns first fell in love with gardening. His respect, fascination, and appreciation for seeds soon followed, leading to a life-long commitment to sustainable agriculture.

Stearns is the president and founder of High Mowing Organic Seeds, located just beyond Hardwick's border in Wolcott, Vermont. High Mowing grows and markets about 650 varieties of organic and heirloom vegetable, flower, and herb seeds through catalogs and retail garden stores nationwide.

“If we can figure out how to farm better, we can figure out how to have an abundant future on this planet,” claims Stearns, a Connecticut native who settled in Vermont in 1996. This is where seeds come in. “In order to farm better, we need seeds that thrive even under great stress,” Stearns says.

Butternut squash is no exception. High Mowing Seeds is selling three varieties of butternut squash this season, among them, a squash known as Nutterbutter which matures in just ninety days. Producing a squash like Nutterbutter doesn’t happen overnight. In fact, it can take up to ten years to make a new seed variety that is up to Stearns’ standards. In the case of Nutterbutter, it took High Mowing’s plant breeder, Jodi Lew-Smith, five.

When it comes to growing one’s own food, patience really is a virtue. “The people who buy our seeds care deeply about the environment and about being stewards of the land,” says Stearns. “They are committed to growing good, healthy food, and leaving the world a little better off than they found it.”

FROM SEED TO HARVEST

High Mowing Seeds are used by farmers beyond Vermont’s Northeast Kingdom as well as nationwide. Christa Alexander and her husband Mark Fashing have been farming in Jericho, a town located in the same county as Burlington, Vermont’s largest city, since 2002. After attending Williams College, Alexander tried several jobs and traveled a bit, but something pulled her back to her family’s land. “I’ve always felt connected to the land,” she says.

Another example of Vermont agripreneurs, she and Mark own and operate Jericho Settlers Farm. Through their Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) program, community members pay in advance for a season’s worth of farm-raised meat, eggs, and fresh vegetables, which are distributed weekly. This popular direct-to-consumer model is a mainstay of Vermont agriculture, and Jericho Settlers Farm runs one of the state’s most successful programs.

Alexander, who believes it is important to buy local, appreciates High Mowing Seeds’ high quality product and commitment to sustainability. In the fall, she sells butternut squash at her farm stand. The majority are put in cold storage and included as part of the Jericho Settlers’ Winter CSA.

“Our community is really supportive of us, and we try to give back,” Alexander says. The Farm has established a relationship with nearby Richmond Elementary School. “The kids come to the farm and help harvest vegetables – including our butternut squash – from the field; they serve our food in the cafeteria...it’s a great program.”

SCHOOL PROGRAM
INTEGRATES THE THREE C’S:
CAFETERIA, CLASSROOM,

THE SEEDS OF THE FUTURE

For Vermonters of all ages, eating locally is simply and naturally a way of life. It is a deeply ingrained, instinctual practice that starts early and stems from a commitment to the land and strong relationships with local farmers. “Kids who grow up on farms, meet farmers, visit farms, and understand how farming works are more likely to make healthy choices,” says Koi Boynton of the Vermont Agency of Agriculture, who helps oversee Vermont’s Farm to School program.

More than half of Vermont’s schools incorporate Farm to School programs into their curriculum. “A successful Farm to School program integrates the three C’s: cafeteria, classroom, and community,” says Boynton. “Serve farm-fresh food in the cafeteria; integrate farm education into the classroom. Connect to the local community and build a foundation for the future.”

Picking a butternut squash, learning how to prepare it for eating, and understanding the math behind selling it to a customer gives students an up-close look at the food system. “The kids start to see the vegetable in a whole new way. They try new things” says Boynton. “They create healthy eating habits, and also gain respect for farming and the importance of agriculture.”

This, Boynton says, helps ensure that the food system in Vermont grows even stronger and more integrated in the future.

“Healthy kids, viable farms, strong communities – it all works together,” she says. “From seed, to soil, to school, Vermont is building a sustainable food system.”

STATE OF VERMONT/TOURISM

Vermont Blazes a New African American Heritage Trail

by Catherine Brooks

Vermont history is defined by its people: Native occupation dating back 10,000 years, pivotal Revolutionary War events, crucial Civil War support, U.S. presidents, senators and leaders whose work contributed to the foundation of our country. While a large part of Vermont's role in our culture is widely known, it is the Green Mountain State's place in African American history that is not as familiar to many.

In order to provide a window into African Americans' role in shaping the destiny of Vermont and Vermonters, the Vermont Department of Tourism and Marketing launched the Vermont African American Heritage Trail. Along the trail, visitors will be able to tour destinations and experience exhibits that speak to Vermont's place in African American history.

Executive Director of Vermont Partnership for Fairness and Diversity Curtiss Reed, who played a key part in the development of this trail, noted that census records indicate that Vermont's African American population has always been a fraction of the overall population. However, as Reed observes, "The history is here. African Americans fought alongside Ethan Allen as members of the Green Mountain Boys who brought Vermont to independence in 1777. And by 1810 we see that Vermont welcomed African Americans to establish roots in this rocky soil as evidenced by enclaves of early black settlers in Hinesburg, Guilford and Grafton." Reed, a Brattleboro resident whose knowledge and enthusiasm was a catalyst for establishing the Vermont African American Heritage Trail, adds, "It is exciting that this history will be available to Vermont's many visitors."

Follow the trail to select museums and historical sites that retell the stories of the people, places and stories that populate three centuries of American and African American history in Vermont.

Vermonters penned the first constitution in America prohibiting slavery. The year was 1777, just one year after the American Revolution, and the place was a roadside tavern in Windsor. Preserved for visitors, today it is the Old Constitution House State Historic Site (www.historicsites.vermont.gov/constitution).

Rokeby Museum, a National Historic Landmark and Underground Railroad site, is described as “unrivaled” by the National Park Service. The home and farm of Quaker abolitionists, a new exhibit tells the true stories of fugitives from slavery who were sheltered there in the 1830s. Tours of the home in which this history was created are also available (www.rokeby.org).

Old Stone House Museum includes a number of historic buildings in this small Northeast Kingdom village. One of them, “Athenian Hall,” was the stately Brownington Academy dormitory built in 1834 by Alexander Twilight, the nation’s first African American to graduate from college. This and related exhibits speak to the accomplishments of Reverend Twilight, including his work as an educator, minister and the first African American elected to serve in the Vermont Legislature (www.oldstonehousemuseum.org).

Brandon Museum and Visitor Center is located in the historic birthplace of Stephen A. Douglas, who is known today primarily for the famous Lincoln/Douglas debates of 1860. Exhibits include a counterpoint to Douglas’ pro-slavery stance with fascinating documentation of the development of abolitionist societies in Brandon (www.brandon.org/things-to-do/the-brandon-museum).

Historically black colleges and universities owe their existence to Senator Justin Smith Morrill and his 1862 Land Grant College Act and its companion legislation, the Land Grant College Act of 1890. Visitors to the Justin Morrill Homestead State Historic Site will experience Morrill’s passion for learning that he extended to all through his legislative work (www.historicsites.vermont.gov/morrill).

Hildene, The Lincoln Family Home, welcomes visitors to the summer home of Robert Todd Lincoln. Lincoln served as president and CEO of the Pullman Car Company. A compelling new exhibit explores the layers of history leading to the organization of the first black labor union in 1925 and the rise of the African American middle class (www.hildene.org).

VERMONT AND THE CIVIL WAR VISITORS GUIDE

In a related piece, visitors may explore 46 Vermont locations that offer compelling stories of Vermont’s support of the Union cause. Visit New England’s best documented stop on the Underground Railroad, the factory where the gun milling machines that armed the nation were produced, and the resort where Mary Lincoln and her children summered in 1864. Experience the fervor of abolitionists, the bravery and dedication of Vermont’s soldiers, and the drama of the northern-most land action of the Civil War. Get a guide and learn more at the website celebrating Vermont’s role in the Civil War (www.vermontcivilwar150.org).

Visitors will learn about one of Vermont’s most intriguing residents, Daisy Turner, at the Grafton Historical Society. Turner was born in 1883 to former slaves Alexander and Sally Turner at their home in this small village. She lived 104 years and told riveting stories that traced the family history from Africa to their journey out of slavery and into the 20th century (www.graftonhistorical.society.org).

Middlebury includes two noteworthy sites. Listen to Daisy Turner talk about her family’s saga at the Vermont Folklife Center, and visit Middlebury College, the first American college to award a degree to an African American, Alexander Twilight (www.vermont.folklifecenter.org, www.middlebury.edu).

The African American Heritage Trail Map is available for download or by request at the website of the Vermont Department of Tourism and Marketing (www.VermontVacation.com).

When the kids are happy, everyone is happy. Luckily, it's easy to keep children content in Vermont! Whether your little one gets excited about history, traditional crafts, or athletics, the Green Mountain State offers endless possibilities for contagious grins that will spread to the grownups in the crowd.

HISTORY KIDS

A king and queen, knights and ladies, peasants, craftsmen, and farmers all gather at the Open Fields Medieval Festival in Thetford on May 25th. During this family-friendly celebration, the town center comes alive with the sights and sounds of a medieval village. Come in costume for music of the Middle Ages, dance, games of skill and chance, authentic food, a parade, falconry, and storytelling. Meet Benny the Dragon, and enjoy feats of juggling and acrobatics. Check out the catapult, try your hand at jousting, and take part in a knighting ceremony. Even teens will go home happy (www.vtmedfest.com).

Every kid looks forward to the 4th of July, and Vermont's traditions can offer a new take on the typical New England celebration. With Green Mountain liberty and freedom of expression, here are two ways to experience Independence Day with a twist:

The Warren 4th of July is a wacky, thought-provoking, family experience. Creative displays, addressing current day politics and world events with tongue-in-cheek themes that demonstrate the influence of freedom of speech and upstage traditional floats, fire trucks, and tractors. Dance, eat, and cavort in the warmth of summer; celebrate the birth of our country's independence and spirit. Free kids' activities and street dance follow the parade (www.facebook.com/warren4thofjuly).

For the more traditionally inclined, the 4th of July President Calvin Coolidge Birthday Celebration at the Calvin Coolidge State Historic Site commemorates the only U.S. president born on Independence Day. At noon, march with members of the Vermont National Guard from the village green to the cemetery where a wreath from the White House is laid at the President's gravesite. After the ceremony, return to the village for chicken barbecue, wagon rides, historic craft demonstrations, and a special musical performance at the church in this authentic, preserved 19th-century village (www.historicsites.vermont.gov/coolidge).

CRAFTY KIDS

Vermont is known for innovation, while at the same time opportunities abound for children of all ages to learn and participate in our cultural heritage through hands-on experiences from the past.

Vermont is deeply rooted in farming as a part of our legacy and a way of the future. Vermont experienced a "sheep boom" in the 1820s, as hillside farms devoted to the growth of ewes, rams, and lambs dotted the land. In Woodstock on May 4-5, Billings Farm hosts Sheep Shearing & Herding with Border Collies, offering a chance to experience this important part of Vermont's rural tradition. This woolly weekend is devoted to Southdown sheep and their herding friends. Watch the Border Collies herding sheep in the farm fields and the shearing of the Farm's ewes; take a turn at carding wool and observe the fleece being spun into yarn. Billings' beautiful barns host wool and sheep-themed craft activities for kids, including a "make-it & take-it" sheep handprint (www.billingsfarm.org).

Explore our heritage with collections of art and Americana for all ages at the Shelburne Museum where over 150,000 works are exhibited in a remarkable setting of 39 exhibition buildings, 25 of which are historic and were relocated to the Museum grounds (www.shelburnemuseum.com). Little ones may participate in daily craft activities that tie into the Museum's exhibitions at the Owl Cottage Family Activity Center. Monthly Saturday morning programs will encourage families to explore – through story and art-making – the exciting exhibitions in the Museum's new Center for Art and Education, opening in fall 2013.

Wood products are also a piece of Vermont's cultural and craft heritage. Working lands continue to be a focus of Vermont's traditions at the 10th Annual Vermont Fine Furniture, Woodworking & Forest Festival in Woodstock on September 28-29, where visitors will experience the story of how Vermonters care for our woods, from forest to finished product. While adults will relish the showcase of magnificent works of art borne from our bounty of trees, crafty kids will be drawn to the demonstration space, featuring bowl turners, boat makers, chairwrights, and carvers. Staff from the U.S. Forest Service hosts wood-working and sawmill demonstrations (www.vermontwoodfestival.org).

HOOKED, HORSE-LOVING, AND HIGH-FLYING KIDS

Kids are great at telling the story of "the big one that got away" but at the 32nd Annual LCI Father's Day Derby presented by Yamaha on June 15-17, the big one just may have to stay hooked to win one of hundreds of prizes for anglers of any ability. A New England family tradition that runs the length of Lake Champlain on the western side of Vermont, this premier event brings thousands of people, from all across the country, to enjoy a weekend of family, friends, and fishing. As a fundraiser for the Colchester-based non-profit Lake Champlain International, the Derby connects people with Vermont's "Great Lake" and supports lake conservation, fisheries restoration, and youth outreach programs. Pre-registration is required to fish in the Derby; junior and family registration options are available (www.mychamplain.net).

From working draft horses to elegant show horses, equine companions have long been a part of Vermonters' lives. Immerse yourself in horse culture and style at East Dorset's Vermont Summer Festival, July 3-August 11. Offering five rings of show-jumping action with more than $750,000 in prize money, this unique spectator festival attracts some of the best horse show jumping athletes, including Olympic medalists, from across the country and around the globe (www.vt-summerfestival.com).

Vermont's state animal, the Morgan Horse, was one of the earliest horse breeds developed in the United States. All Morgans trace back to a single sire named Figure, born in 1789. At the Lippitt Country Show in Tunbridge on August 16-18, horse-loving kids will love this old-fashioned show located in the same village where Figure was buried in the 1820s. Highlighting the versatility of the Lippitt Morgan, show classes include in-hand, Western, English, jumping, trail, and stick horse (802-235-2264).

With jumping in common, high-flying kids will relate to the young performers – ages 10 to 18 – who star as aerialists, clowns, acrobats, jugglers, wirewalkers, and unicyclists in Circus Smirkus, Vermont's own homegrown, award-winning youth circus. Circus Smirkus has received international acclaim from media outlets including The New York Times, The International Herald Tribune, Fox & Friends and Teen Kids News. The one-ring show under a classic 750-seat Big Top features an original score, live music, custom-made costumes, and professional choreography. Now in its 26th season and based in Greensboro, the Circus boasts a summer schedule with performance venues all over Vermont and New England (www.smirkus.org).

Come Back To Experience Winter's Winning Ways

a perfect winter's day is largely what you make of it.

Create an experience with purpose. Snow-covered mountains with an abundance of trails for alpine and Nordic skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing, or snowmobiling are a good start. Add a landscape that is at once idyllic and invigorating, provincial and cosmopolitan, rustic and contemporary – and your dream begins to look a lot like Vermont.

The sparkling crystalline outdoors is the centerpiece of Vermont's winter experience. The rising choose-your-pace popularity of snowshoeing and the creation of diverse trail networks throughout many communities and resorts provide access to the quiet silent wonder of Vermont's woodlands and forests.

For the vigorously inclined, Vermont has plenty of dynamic terrain for all ages and abilities. Get your glide on at more than 20 alpine ski resorts and 40 Nordic centers; from groomed cruisers and track-set Nordic trails to backcountry ski tours, half-pipes and downhill races, Vermont skiing will thrill you. Best of all, Vermont's Yankee ingenuity has been applied to supplementing natural snow. Snowmaking was born in Vermont and advances in snowmaking equipment and techniques, together with grooming, continue to keep trails open and maintained throughout the entire season.

Snowmobiling is another mode of adventure that transports winter enthusiasts into the snowy countryside. The Vermont Association of Snow Travelers (VAST) has created a nearly 4,000-mile network of maintained trails throughout the state (www.vtvast.org).

For a prescription of relaxation, try indulging in the abundant services of our world-class spas, cozying up to the woodstove with a great novel and a cup of tea, or strolling through Main Street's shops and antique stores in an historic village.

The museums, galleries, theater, and concerts that inspire the culturally-minded in the summer and fall also have winter seasons with exhibits and performances, just a short drive from anywhere in the state. Plan ahead with online events calendars (for example, www.VisitVT.com and www.VermontVacation.com).

A mid-afternoon break from any outdoor adventure or indoor activity is the perfect time for refueling: try a crisp McIntosh apple with a wedge of cheddar or creamy artisan goat cheese, followed by a few squares of very dark chocolate (all made in Vermont, of course). Many inns and B&Bs host tea times with signature Vermont products and recipes featuring locally grown ingredients.

That, in turn, sets the appetite for dinner, whether the mood calls for a quick, crisply crusted pizza and local ice cream, or an elegant meal prepared by one of Vermont's many accomplished chefs.

Once you've discovered the perfect winter's day, it's inviting to consider making a week of it, or at least a string of weekends!

RESOURCES: AGRICULTURAL FAIRS, FIELD DAYS AND FESTIVALS

Agricultural Fairs, Field Days and Festivals

Fairs in Vermont are a cultural tradition that date back to a simpler time, when farmers would gather together to show off their latest tools, techniques, and impressive tractors. Today, we still enjoy agricultural fairs, field days and festivals – from the rides, parades, and tractor pulls to the specialty food vendors, live animals and live entertainment, these events really are for the whole family. Visit any one of Vermont's fairs – from the 142-year-old Tunbridge Fair to the more modern Deerfield Valley Blueberry Festival – for a fabulous time! For more fair and field day information, check out the events section of VisitVT.com.

RESOURCES: ANTIQUES, ART AND CRAFT GALLERIES, STATE CRAFT CENTERS

Antiques, Art and Craft Galleries, State Craft Centers

With so many artists, craftspeople and galleries throughout the state, it's easy to fall in love with a work of art, or a vintage antique, be it a painting, a blown-glass ornament, or a piece of hand-crafted furniture. Antique shops, craft centers, art galleries and local cafes and coffeehouses, woven within many Vermont communities, evidence the creative ingenuity of local artists. Vermont State Craft Centers feature Vermont artisans' mastery in all mediums, from glass to fiber art, jewelry to paintings and more (www.vermontcraftcenters.com).

Statewide listings in bold print are members of the Vermont Chamber of Commerce; all regional listings represent Vermont Chamber members. Please use the Statewide resources listed to find other art galleries and craft centers throughout the state of Vermont.

RESOURCES: BREWERIES, BREWPUBS AND CIDERIES

Breweries, Brewpubs and Cideries

Vermont brewers craft some of the finest beer and hard ciders around. In fact, Vermont has more craft breweries per capita than any other state! Hard cider is not malt-based, is gluten free, and is handcrafted with fresh Vermont apples. Visit a brewery or cidery today and sample some tasty malt, or malt-free, beverages! Most offer tours, daily or by appointment. Please call ahead for hours of operation.

Country Stores

Vermont country stores have provided rural communities with the necessities of everyday life for generations. Today, our traditional stores carry everything from coffee, snacks, fishing licenses and motor oil to more luxurious items such as maple products, artisan cheeses, prized wine selections, homemade preserves, and unique Vermont gifts.

Covered Bridges

Built for necessity and covered to protect Vermonters who came before us from the elements, Vermont's covered bridges are architecturally stunning, fun to experience, and an important part of our legacy. This list gives you the covered bridge's name, dates of origination and renovation, and exact location. The Official Vermont Road Map & Guide to Vermont Attractions locates covered bridges as well as a wealth of other resources on the map. Pick up a map at Vermont's Welcome and Information Centers or visit www.VTAttractions.org.

* refers to three covered bridges damaged during Tropical Storm Irene in August 2011. The State of Vermont has pledged to repair or replace all of those historic covered bridges damaged by the storm.

Designated Downtowns

Vermont's downtowns were selected as one of the world's three top destinations in 2007. The "Tourism for Tomorrow" juried competition, organized by the World Travel & Tourism Council, identified destinations that comprise a network of tourism businesses and organizations – a country, city, state or region – that has shown dedication and succeeded in maintaining a policy of sustainable management incorporating social, cultural, environmental and economic aspects. Contact these Designated Downtown associations for more information about downtown events and activities.

Equestrian Resources

The vigor and quality of Vermont's equestrian community is one of its best kept secrets. The Morgan Horse, developed in Vermont, is the Vermont State Animal, and is still a strong part of Vermont's agriculture and evolving heritage.

A bit of Vermont horse trivia:

- The University of Vermont "government" line of Morgan Horse is one of the best in the world.
- More than 100,000 acres of Vermont land is kept open by horses.
- The equine industry is Vermont's second largest agricultural industry.

Vermont offers both novice and experienced riders the opportunity to stable or rent horses, enjoy ring and trail rides, see horses and riders show their best, and relax and enjoy the summer and fall scenery on horseback or in a wagon ride. Use the resources below to make horseback riding part of your Vermont vacation.

Farm Vacations and Experiences

Looking for an enjoyable, interesting, educational vacation? Spend part of your vacation on a working or historic farm! Milk a cow, feed an alpaca, shear a sheep, ride a horse, enjoy cheese from goats, take a wagon ride, and walk long pastures or forested paths. Farm visits are great fun, and can be as engaging or as relaxing as you wish.

Spend the night on a farm, too! Many Vermont farmers welcome guests with open arms for a "farm stay." What could be better than farm-fresh roasts, warm pies, fluffy biscuits and the beautiful Vermont farm landscape?

Here is a sampling of Vermont Chamber of Commerce members who offer farm vacations and experiences, daily farm tours, or both!

RESOURCES: HIKING TRAILS ON STATE LANDS

Hiking Trails on State Lands

This section highlights some popular and accessible trails on state lands in Vermont. Many hiking trails in State Parks are not listed here. Please visit www.vtstateparks.com or see page 111 of this guidebook to locate a State Park.

SPRING HIKING – Vermont's trails are especially vulnerable to damage during the early spring "mud season." Upper elevation trails are closed during mud season and are open for hiking beginning on Memorial Day weekend. Hikers are asked to avoid all trails that appear muddy or wet during this season to prevent channeling water, loosening soil, and trampling vegetation and soil adjacent to the trail surface.

LONG TRAIL, APPALACHIAN TRAIL AND OTHER REGIONAL OR STATEWIDE TRAILS – Long Trail Info: Green Mountain Club, 4711 Waterbury-Stowe Rd., Waterbury Center, VT 05677, 802-244-7037, www.greenmountainclub.org. Appalachian Trail Info: Appalachian Trail Conservancy Main Office, 5 Joy St., Boston, MA 02108; Appalachian Mountain Club, 800-372-1758, www.outdoors.org

KEY      E - Easy      M - Moderate      MD - Moderately Difficult      D - Difficult      NL - National Natural Landmark      $ - Entry fee

STATEWIDE

RESOURCES: HIKING WITH KIDS

Hiking with Kids

Hiking with children is both fun and challenging. Be sure to bring plenty of water, snacks and warm clothing as even in summer weather the tops of mountains can be chilly with wind.

Try the Venture Vermont Outdoor Challenge, a program for families to earn points to receive free passes to Vermont's State Parks. You and your family earn points by doing fun outdoor activities from a score sheet. To download a score sheet, or for more information, visit www.vtstateparks.com or call 802-241-3655.

Below is a sampling of kid-friendly hikes. More information can be found at www.vtstateparks.com.

RESOURCES: HISTORIC SITES | HUNTING

Historic Sites

The Vermont Division for Historic Preservation owns and operates a statewide system of historic sites open seasonally. Discover hands-on exhibits, reenactments, lectures and workshops, and special events for all ages.

NORTHERN VT

FAIRFIELD

President Chester A. Arthur State Historic Site: July through mid Oct., Sat. & Sun., Mon. Holidays, 11-5 pm. Interpretive exhibit detailing the life and career of the 21st President. The brick church, where Arthur's father served as a preacher, has been restored. Donations accepted. 455 Chester Arthur Rd., Fairfield, VT 05455. 802-933-8362

LAKE CHAMPLAIN AREA

Underwater Historic Preserves: May through late Oct., daily. Seven shipwrecks, dating back to the 1700s, located in Lake Champlain, are marked and open for scuba divers: the Burlington Bay Horse Ferry, the Phoenix, the Coal Barge, the General Butler, the Champlain II, the O.J. Walker, and the Stone Boat. Coast Guard-approved yellow buoys identify the Preserves. Call the Lake Champlain Maritime Museum 802-475-2022.

CENTRAL VT

ADDISON

Chimney Point State Historic Site: May through October, Wed.-Sun. and Mon. Holidays, 9-5 pm. One of the earliest, most intensely settled and strategic sites in the Champlain Valley with human habitation going back as far as 7,500 years. Admission fee. 7305 Route 125 Addison, VT 05491. 802-759-2412.

HUBBARDTON

Hubbardton Battlefield State Historic Site: Late May through early Oct. Thurs.-Sun., 9:30-5 pm. Site of the only Revolutionary War battle fought in Vermont, with a monument, visitor's center, special events and educational programs. Admission fee. 5696 Monument Rd., Hubbardton, VT 05732. 802-759-2412 or 802- 273-2282.

ORWELL

Mount Independence State Historic Site: Late May through early Oct., daily, 9:30-5 pm. The largest fortification built by American colonial forces during the Revolutionary War, this site now features a state-of-the-art interpretive center, extensive hiking trails, with one trail designated meeting ADA standards, special events, artifacts, and more. Admission fee. 497 Mount Independence Rd., Orwell, VT 05760. 802-759-2412 or 802-948-2000.

PLYMOUTH NOTCH

President Calvin Coolidge State Historic Site: Late May through mid Oct., daily, 9:30-5 pm. Birthplace and boyhood home of our 30th U.S. President, the village of Plymouth Notch is unchanged since the early 20th century. Eleven buildings are open to the public, including the homestead, general store, church, cheese factory, and 1924 "Summer White House." Admission fee. 3780 Rte. 100A, Plymouth, VT 05056. 802-672-3773.

SPRINGFIELD

Eureka Schoolhouse: Built in 1790, the Schoolhouse is one of the few surviving 18th century public buildings in Vermont, and is furnished with a variety of educational material. 470 Charlestown Rd., Springfield, VT 05156. Operated by the Springfield Area Chamber of Commerce, 802-885-2779.

STRAFFORD

Senator Justin Smith Morrill Homestead: Late May through early Oct., Sat. & Sun., 11-5 pm. Built in 1849, this furnished 17-room Gothic Revival cottage, with intricate carved wooden detailing, is painted rosy pink to resemble cut stone. As U.S. Congressman and later Senator, Morrill was responsible for the acts establishing the Land Grant Colleges, opening the door to higher education for millions of Americans. Admission fee. 214 Justin Smith Morrill Highway, Strafford, VT 05072. 802-765-4484, 802-828-3051.

WINDSOR

Old Constitution House: Late May through mid Oct., Sat. & Sun., 11-5 pm. Called the "Birthplace of Vermont," the restored 18th century tavern looks as it did more than 200 years ago. Exhibits in this furnished house focus on the first constitution in America to prohibit slavery, to allow men to vote without requiring property ownership, and to authorize a public school system, which was adopted here in 1777. Admission fee. 16 North Main St., Windsor, VT 05089. 802-672-3773.

SOUTHERN VT

BENNINGTON

Bennington Battle Monument: Mid April through Oct., daily, 9-5 pm. The tallest structure in Vermont, this 306-foot stone monolith, with elevator to observation point, commemorates the August 16, 1777 Battle of Bennington, a battle that led to the turning point in the Revolutionary War. Views of three states can be seen from the observation deck. An exhibit examines the design and construction of the 1891 Monument. Special events throughout the season. Admission fee. 15 Monument Circle, Bennington, VT 05201. 802-447-0550.

RESOURCES: MAPLE SUGARHOUSES OPEN YEAR-ROUND

Maple Sugarhouses Open Year-Round

Vermont is the leading producer of maple syrup in the United States, with an annual average yield of over half a million gallons! The tapping of maple trees and boiling of sap occurs in early spring, but tours and gift shops at sugarhouses are usually available year-round. It is also recommended that you call ahead, whether it's just to look around or to arrange a tour or sugar-on-snow party.

Summer Camps for Children

Vermont has a summer camp to suit almost every interest and child, from overnight to day camp, from sports and cooking to horseback riding and nature programs. Our idyllic mountains, lakes, and valleys make this state the perfect place to experience that quintessential camp feeling.

Many Vermont ski resorts hold summer camp programs, so be sure to check www.skivermont.com to find a resort with a kids' summer program. For a complete list of summer camps in Vermont, visit the Resource Guide at www.kidsvt.com.

Below is a sampling of Vermont Chamber of Commerce members who run children's summer camp programs.

Customs Information

All travelers entering the United States from Canada must present one of the following travel documents: U.S. Passport or Passport Card, Enhanced Driver's License (EDL) or Trusted Traveler Card (NEXUS, SENTRI or FAST). These documents are available in some U.S. states and Canadian provinces. For U.S. customs information, visit www.cbp.gov; for Canadian Customs, www.cbsa-asfc.gc.ca.

U.S. and Canadian citizen children under age 16 arriving by land or sea from contiguous territory may also present an original or copy of his or her birth certificate, a Consular Report of Birth Abroad, a Naturalization Certificate, or a Canadian Citizenship Card.

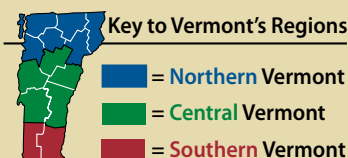

U.S. and Canadian citizen children under age 19 arriving by land or sea from contiguous territory and traveling with a school group, religious group, social or cultural organization, or sports team, may also present an original or copy of his or her birth certificate, a Consular Report of Birth Abroad, a Naturalization Certificate, or a Canadian Citizenship Card.

Travelers other than U.S. citizens, legal U.S. residents and Canadian citizens must have a passport and visa when applicable and must give the purpose of their visit and planned length of stay.

Certain plants, fruits, vegetables, meats and prepared meats are prohibited. Dogs and other pets must have, from their veterinarian, a recent certificate of a rabies shot noting that the animal does not have any contagious disease.

For more information on border crossing, write to: U.S. Customs, PO Box 7407, Washington, D.C. 20044, 202-566-8195; or to the U.S. Customs District Office in St. Albans, VT 05478, 802-524-6527. You can also get more information at the U.S. customs offices in Montréal, 514-636-3875 or Toronto, 416-676-2606.

Current border crossing wait times for Rock Island/Derby Line (I-91) and St. Armand/Highgate Springs (I-89) are updated hourly on the U.S. and Canadian websites noted above.

TEMPERATURE AVERAGES

Maximum/Minimum (Degrees Fahrenheit) Weather Bureau - Burlington, VT

Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	June	July	Aug	Sept	Oct	Nov	Dec
25°	27°	38°	53°	66°	76°	80°	78°	69°	57°	44°	30°
08°	09°	21°	33°	44°	54°	59°	57°	49°	39°	30°	15°

Daytime summer temperatures are 70 - 80° (21 - 26° C), ideal for outdoor activity.

Evenings can be cool, so sweaters are recommended. Autumn and spring high temperatures are typically in the mid 50's (12 - 14° C). The snow season runs from late November through early April with daytime highs often below freezing, suitable winter clothing and warm, waterproof footwear are recommended. In general, temperatures will usually be cooler at higher elevations in the mountains.

Vermont Attractions

The Vermont Attractions Association is your guide to family fun, Vermont style! Vermont's finest attractions are profiled and conveniently placed on the official state highway map, the Official Vermont Road Map & Guide to Vermont Attractions. From major highways to back roads, use the map to find the attractions that best fit your interests, including children's adventures, science, history, culture and agricultural experiences – and always, great shopping opportunities and tasty treats.

Many attractions host events year-round; visit the website of the Vermont Attractions Association for the events calendar and to request your complimentary copy of the Official Vermont Road Map & Guide to Vermont Attractions, www.VTAttractions.org. Pick up the map at any Vermont Welcome and Information Center, or order a copy on the tourism website of the State of Vermont, www.VermontVacation.com. Let the adventures begin in our accessible Green Mountain State!

Vineyards and Wineries

Vermont's vintners are innovative farmers, making wines from new varietals of grapes and also from fruits, berries, and even frozen fruit. Most wineries and vineyards offer tastings and tours, daily or by appointment. Some are small family farms, so call ahead to make sure they are open. Entities shown in bold print are members of the Vermont Chamber of Commerce.

RESOURCES: WATERFALLS | WEDDINGS

Waterfalls

Thanks to Dean Goss for selecting some waterfalls he felt the Vermont visitor would enjoy. For more information on all of Vermont's waterfalls, visit www.northeastwaterfalls.com.

NORTHERN VT

STOWE

Bingham Falls, West Branch Waterbury River, 90'
On Rte. 108, about 1/2 mile past the Mount Mansfield Toll Road. Unmarked pull-off on the north side of the road. Trail leads downhill to the falls and gorge. The trail goes to the river above the falls, runs upstream to a crossing, then follows the opposite bank downstream.

Moss Glen Falls, Moss Glen Brook, 125'
3 miles on Rte. 100 north of Stowe, turn right on Randolph Road, then right again on Moss Glen Falls Road. Park at the well-maintained parking area on the left, just before the road takes a 90 degree right turn across a narrow bridge. The falls are a short walk on a well-worn trail. Peregrine Falcons have been known to nest in adjacent cliffs.

TROY

Big Falls, Missisquoi River, 40'
On River Road, about 1.5 miles south of Rte. 105. Large, unmarked turnoff on the west side of the road. Falls are about 200 feet from parking area. Largest undammed waterfall on a major river in Vermont. The cliff-top overlook is not fenced.

BOLTON

Honey Hollow Falls, Preston Brook, 64'
Take Rte. 2 to Jonesville and go across the new Winooski River bridge. Turn immediately left on River Road. In about 2 miles, you'll see Honey Hollow Road on your right. Drive up this narrow dirt road and look for a small parking area on your left on the steep portion of the road. There should be 3 large rocks here. You'll hear the falls, which are only about 100' through the woods.

BRISTOL

Bristol Memorial Park Falls, Baldwin Creek, 47'
Also known as Burnhams Falls or The Flume. From Bristol, go about 4 miles north on Rte. 116. Turn right on Route 17. The parking area is well-marked as you approach, with a short trail leading to the falls. Continuing across the footbridge, you'll find a loop trail back to Route 17 above the parking area.

FAIRLEE

Glen Falls, Glen Falls Brook, 75'
From Rte. 5 in Fairlee, turn east on Lake Morey Rd. Drive 1.5 miles, park in fishing access parking lot. Trail begins to the south.

Small waterfall is about 3/10 mile away, and larger cascades are above on steeper terrain.

GRANVILLE

Moss Glen Falls, Deer Hollow Brook, 30'
Likely the most photogenic waterfall in the state, it is located next to Rte. 100 in Granville Gulf. Large parking area is a few hundred feet up the road from the falls. A boardwalk leads back to the falls, passing Little Moss Glen Falls on the way.

HANCOCK

Texas Falls, Hancock Brook, 35'
From Hancock, turn west onto Rte. 125. After about 3.5 miles, turn right on the well-signed road for Texas Falls. There is a paved parking lot across from the falls. Swimming at the falls is not allowed. The bridge over the gorge provides views.

LUDLOW

Buttermilk Falls, Branch Brook, 35'
This waterfall is located a mile north of Ludlow. Just off Rte. 103, by the VFW, is Buttermilk Falls Road. The falls are near the end of the road, just below the old closed bridge. There are 3 different sets of falls here, about 300 feet apart, with the upper two being the more impressive.

QUECHEE

Quechee Village Falls, Ottaquechee River, 15'
South on Rte. 4 for about 1.5 miles. Turn right on Quechee Main Rd. Follow into the village of Quechee. The falls are in the center of town. Enjoy the view of the falls from the picture windows at Simon Pearce restaurant and glassblowing at The Mill at Quechee, 1760 Quechee Main St.

SALISBURY

The Falls of Lana, Sucker Brook, 100'
Take Rte. 7 from Middlebury to Salisbury, turn east onto Rte. 53. Drive about 3 miles, until you see the Silver Lake Power Station. Park off the road along Rte. 53, being sure not to block traffic. The fastest way to the falls is to walk up along the penstocks to the view of the falls from a fenced overlook. Just a little further uphill you will find the trail that leads to the top of the falls and eventually to Silver Lake.

WARREN

Warren Falls, Mad River, 20'
Take Rte. 100 south out of Warren. In 3.4 miles, there is a large turnout on the right. Park here and follow the trail to the falls, which are downstream (right) from the parking area. Wear good footwear, as there is a steep root ladder to get to the pool below.

WEATHERSFIELD

Cascade Falls, Mill Brook, 84'
On the southwest side of Mt. Ascutney is a single tall drop called Cascade Falls, sometimes referred to as Crystal Cascade Falls. Take Exit 8 on I-91. Turn west on Route 131. In about 4 miles, look for Weathersfield Rd. Follow to the parking area. Cascade Falls is 1.2 miles out on the trail, passing the trickle known as Little Cascade Falls along the way.

MANCHESTER

Lye Brook Falls, Lye Brook, 160'
From Rte. 7A, turn east on Depot St. (Rtes. 11/30) and drive about 1/2 mile, turning right on Richville Road. At Post Office, turn left on East Manchester Rd., cross beneath Rte. 7. After underpass, turn right on the Lye Brook Falls Access Rd. (the sign might say Glen Road, but there is another sign indicating Lye Brook Falls access) and follow it to the end and park. The trail exits the parking lot at the far end. The first several yards are on rounded and somewhat slippery rocks, but this changes to a level former rail bed. The falls are reached in 2.3 miles.

RESOURCES: WILDLIFE WATCHING AND BIRDING

Wildlife Watching and Birding

In summer and autumn Vermont is home to hundreds of wildlife species, from brightly colored blue jays and red-bellied woodpeckers, whitetail deer and gray fox, to Vermont's state bird, the hermit thrush. The fortunate observer may even catch a glimpse of a peregrine falcon, bald eagle or moose.

Whether you intend to or not, you may end up watching wildlife while enjoying other great outdoor activities such as hiking or canoeing. Your inn-keeper or concierge can direct you to local wildlife watching or birding spots, and you might even find organized birding excursions in your area.

Be sure to dress in layers and bring snacks and water in a day pack, even if you're planning a short trip. If you're planning to hike, supportive, water-proof footwear is a must, and be sure to check the weather report prior to setting out. Field guides are a good idea for identifying the birds and animals that you find. No matter how tame a wild animal may appear, do not approach them. Don't forget your binoculars! Many wildlife preserves and birding areas do have sections that are closed to the public, so be aware of signs and fencing.

INDEX OF ADVERTISERS

Listings in this guide are submitted by the management or owner of the facility. The Vermont Chamber of Commerce has accepted the descriptions printed as true statements and assumes the information presented is accurate and, therefore, cannot be liable for errors, omissions or out-of-date information. All facts within this guide are subject to change without notice.

All hotels, tourist homes, inns, roadside cabins, children's camps and food establishments are required to comply with a modern set of public health laws and regulations, and they must prove this by securing a license from the Vermont Department of Health before opening business.

All public facility water supplies used for drinking purposes or for brushing teeth must be obtained from approved sources. Samples are tested regularly.

Visitors making lodging reservations in Vermont are urged to be sure there is a clear understanding of the "rules of the house." Investigate in advance what plans are available, rates, and deposit or refund policies of the lodging establishment. Be sure you understand what your package plan includes. If you are traveling with children or pets, or need special accommodation considerations, be sure to notify the innkeeper in advance to eliminate misunderstandings.
